

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

5 An input device apparatus for providing coordinate data indicative of the motion of an object to a computing apparatus, includes an elongated member translatable along and rotatable about a longitudinal axis, a swing arm attached to the object and to the elongated member such that movement of the object results in corresponding movement of the elongated member, and an engagement surface for engaging an input device of the computing apparatus.